

Privacy Policy

- Clicky application was designed to ensure that its users are protected from the 3rd party influences
- No information is gathered about its users once downloaded. By information this includes:
 - Data about the users device
 - Photographic photos uploaded by the user during clicky time
 - Date the user decided to be clicky on is not saved in any format on a device
 - The colour the user chose to prime their clickiness is strictly not downloaded as an RGB scheme

Other Parties

- Clicky application does not use the services of any 3rd party vendor to store or attempt to collect information from its users.
- No information is logged about the whilst the user is using the application either with or without being connected to the internet as we do not wish to collect statistics to improve the application in the future.

Age Restrictions

- There is no reason as to why any children under the age of 17 should be using or attempt to download this clicky application. Should you be aware of your teenage under the age of 17 who has or has attempted to download this application and uses it, contact me at hinal@electronenterprises.co.za and I will to the best of my ability disable their access to the application.

Modifications to the Application

- Should there be any changes to the features of this application we shall inform the users how the policy might change around the updates.

Terms & Conditions

- Once the application has been downloaded the terms and conditions of this document hereunto apply to the user. This includes the fact that the user is:
 - Ineligible to replicate or reuse the source code of the application in any way possible.
 - Copy the features and create a derivation of the application.
 - The application and the graphical icon of the application is the sole intellectual information belonging to the developer, Hinal Patel.